"They must have been ready for us. We started our protest and they suddenly appeared out of the side alleys, lobbing gas grenades as they advanced. They were like solid walls on all sides, rows of riot shields locked together. We panicked and ran, but we were blocked in. The Dispersals took us apart man, they came straight at us hitting anything that got in their way. A few of us tried to fight back, to lash out against the oppressive system. Most of 'em are now in hospital... or the morgue."
